

Do you want to understand the latest politics in the Persian Gulf region, home to almost 50% of global oil reserves? How are these oil-rich countries adapting to a renewable energy future? How are aging monarchs and powerful crown princes reshaping politics for a new generation, in a region where religious and cultural traditions are highly valued? We invite you to attend our digital webinar to learn more about these events, and how a Master of Middle Eastern and Central Asian studies can help you interpret contemporary politics, history, culture, political economy, languages and religious studies in this critical region. Presented by Dr Jessie Moritz from the Centre for Arab and Islamic Studies.

Crown Princes, Oil, and Politics in the Persian Gulf: Introducing the Master of Middle East and Central Asian Studies

ANU POSTGRADUATE WEBINAR WEEK

Details

1:15pm, Thursday 17 June

Register via Zoom:

https://anu.zoom.us/join/zoom/register/WN_xeGEWoSH22Za2jN6SJ1g

Contact

Future Students Team

T — 1800 620 032

Australian National University