This proposal of the doctoral dissertation examines the exiled political activism of Turkmen diasporas in Türkiye and the US from 2020 to 2024. Under the regimes of Saparmurat Niyazov (1991–2006), Gurbanguly Berdymukhammedov (2006–2022), and Serdar Berdymukhammedov (2022–present), the Turkmen government has suppressed dissent and opposition, resulting in non-existent public engagement within Turkmenistan and limited academic research on the subject. However, since 2020, Turkmen diasporas abroad have increasingly engaged in demonstrations against domestic policies, marking a novel phenomenon in Turkmen political activism. Thus, this study proposes primary research and fieldwork to analyse exiled political activism of Turkmen diasporas abroad.
